

Tools

Programming-in-the-small refers to software development at the level of the code of a single module.

Programming-in-the-large is software development at the modules level.

Programming-in-the-many: software developed by a team.

Discussion: Review various software tools to classify them as belonging to what category: programming-in-the-small, programming-in-the-large or programming-in-the-many.